

OPERETTA AT THEATRE FRIDAY EVENING SHOULD DRAW CROWDED HOUSE

FINEST MUSICAL OFFERING FOR MANY YEARS BEING PRODUCED

Without doubt, the operetta which is to be given on Friday evening next at the Elite theatre, under the auspices of the W.A. of the Wainwright United Church, should prove one of the finest attractions this district has seen for a good long time.

Supported by a company of around fifty persons, accompanied by a full orchestra, the dainty "Miss Cherry-blossom" (who, by the way, is making her debut here on this occasion), tells the story of an American girl brought up in Japan through force of circumstances, and all this to tuneful and catchy music, amid elaborate stage settings.

Seldom before has so magnificent an offering been attempted in town before, and after weeks of hard and careful training, the whole company (principals and chorus alike) are all prepared to give an evenings entertainment seldom equaled and never excelled in this district.

The affair will start at EIGHT promptly, and patrons are requested to be in their seats before that hour so that no disturbance may be caused by late comers.

A special feature which is worth noting by our play-goers is that the week-end excursion to the city which was arranged for Friday and Saturday only has been extended in order that the cut-rate tickets will be available up to the 3 o'clock train on Saturday morning, thus giving all a chance to attend the operetta on Friday evening next who possibly had planned to be away on that date.

Clubs to Compete Royal Winter Fair

In the annual National Club Contests in connection with the Boys' and Girls' Farm Club movement, thirty-two club teams of two members each, representing all of the Provinces of the Dominion will compete in several live stock and field crop projects at the Royal Winter Fair to be held in Toronto, from November 21 to 29 inclusive. The actual contests will be conducted on November 20 and the sixty-four contestants will remain in Toronto until Friday evening, November 30, visiting the Royal Winter Fair and other points of interest under the direction of the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club work. These club teams have earned the right to compete in Toronto by winning their respective provincial elimination contests.

Local Lodge Greet Grand Officer Mon.

The local lodge of Odd Fellows, at their regular meeting on Monday evening saw a nice attendance of visitors from Irma and Chauvin in addition to the Wainwright members, when the annual district meeting at which Bro. W. Chait, of Chauvin, D.D.G.M., presided, was held.

Following the usual order of business under Bro. L. Mitchell, N.G., the Grand Lodge officer took the gavel and considerable business was put through under his direction, including among which was the appointment of the D.D.G.M. for the next term, this honor falling to Bro. Alec. Sawers, P.G.

At the close a splendid lunch was served to the large number present by a committee under the guidance of Bro. D. W. Davidson before the "au revoir" were said and the visitors from a distance started their mid-night rides.

Wainwright Buffalo Are First-Class Passengers

Halifax, N.S.—"Jean", "Joan", "Lillian" and "William" Douglas have embarked on the Gdynia-American liner Kościuszko from Halifax, bound for Poland. They have special quarters to themselves on the deck of the liner and special feed was taken along consisting of hay, oats and other fodder.

The "passengers" are four Canadian buffalo from Wainwright National Park, Alberta, and are going to Dr. Ignace Moczko, Spalna, Janen, Poland, to be placed in a national park there, their future home.

They made the journey in a cattle car, each in a special crate and the crates were transferred by motor trucks from the car to the ship. They will be accompanied to Poland by H. Sedziak.

WHO WANTS CARAGANA?

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe will supply a reasonable amount of caragana seed to all farmers desirous of starting a shelter belt. Seed and instruction will be supplied on receipt of a request accompanied by stamps to cover postage or express charges. Two pounds of seed requires 16 postage and will need about 3000 feet of drill.

CHRISTMAS MAIL FOR OVERSEAS

Parcels and other mail for delivery in European countries for Christmas should be mailed within the next two weeks, and at the very latest to connect with the S.S. "Duchess of York" sailing from St. John, December 8th and from Halifax, December 9th.

Anglican Church Ladies' Hold Big Annual Bazaar

L.O.O.F. HALL SCENE OF BUSY THROUGH ON SATURDAY

The members of St. Thomas' (Ang.) church W.A. received their customary share of patronage and donations on Saturday afternoon last, when the folks of town and district visited the Odd Fellows' hall for their annual church bazaar.

A nice crowd was present when the vicar, Rev. C. N. Bateman, officially declared the affair open at 3 p.m., and a rush was made for the fancy work stalls where the convener, Mrs. A. C. Hart, with her committee of Mesdames Lally, Adams and W. Wheaton, were all kept busy.

The produce stall under the care of Mrs. W. Miller, J. Hardy, E. Mead and Miss Bonner (with their convener Mrs. C. Church) busy all the time.

The "afternoon tea" tables were all patronized, too, and these kept Mesdames E. Bonner, J. Hardy, E. Mead and Miss Bonner (with their convener Mrs. C. Church) busy all the time.

The "Little Juniors" under the guidance of their leaders, Mrs. C. Horn and Mrs. G. Graham, were busy with a stall of home-made goods and they were able to report "sold-out" before the close.

The final result shows that over $100 was added to the treasury by the efforts put forth, and the president of the society, Mrs. C. N. Bateman, extends to all who helped so ardently and generously with the sewing and other contributions (members and non-members alike) a hearty and sincere "Thank-you" on behalf of the W.A.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. Grant Saul, of Jarow, was a guest at the St. Thomas' vicarage for a few days last week.

One of our former business men was in town from Edmonton this week for a couple of days in the person of Mr. H. C. Montgomery.

Miss Joyce Wethorne, with a recent guest of Mrs. C. N. Bateman before returning to her home at Galahad.

The second year's canvass for the restoration fund for the Anglican Church of Canada has been completed at this point, and once more Wainwright is indebted to Mr. Gordon Graham for his great efforts in this work. It is pleasing to note that the full quota was reached within $300.

The young victim of the recent shooting accident at Hughtenside who was brought to hospital here is getting along as well as can be expected. We understand it is hoped that he will be losing the sight of one eye only.

Mr. A. H. Kohl was a visitor to the city for a few days last week on business.

We learn that Mr. Steve Bowerman has rented the former Hissom garage on Second avenue and plans to operate a garage and service station at that point in the near future.

The "In-And-Out" Farmer Is Losing

Dean Howes of the University of Alberta, in a recent address expressed the hope that, "the young farmer of tomorrow will have ceased to be an in-and-outer." You know what I mean—a man who, when crop is high, rushes into pigs, and then when the horizon is darkened with pigs and the price is going down, is anxiously looking for some other chance to plunge, when it is high, he breaks up land that should be in pasture and that should never have been broken perhaps and then when the wheat market slumps, well, he is ready to try something else. That man is not a farmer; he is only masquerading as one. I hope that the hypothetical young man who is considering will save and invest soundly his profit when prices are good and that he will know better than to throw up his hands and quit because prices have gone down."

Mrs. J. M. Holt, of Irma, is visiting at the home of Mrs. W. Pigeon.

Annual General Meeting AND SMOKER CANADIAN LEGION B.E.S.L.

Wainwright Branch, No. 29, will hold their Annual General Meeting in the Majestic Hall, Wainwright, on Friday, December 7th at eight p.m. sharp to which all returned men are cordially invited.

Election of Officers and other important business will be transacted.

ROYAL BANK WILL CLOSE DOORS HERE

AFTER SERVING WAINWRIGHT
DISTRICT NEARLY 25 YEARS

News received in town during the past week (and which can by no means be regarded as good news) is to the effect that the Wainwright branch of the Royal Bank is to be closed at the end of this month. Head office of the bank has so decided, and the deposit business of the branch in town here is being transferred to the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, so far as can be learned, the manager O'Callaghan and his staff of the Royal will be transferred to other branches, after the closing of the branch, and as there has been a staff of four employed, the announcement will be received with a great deal of regret in other ways as well as from a business standpoint.

To briefly outline the history of the bank's existence in Wainwright it will be remembered by some of the old-timers that the Royal was originally a branch of the old Union Bank of Canada, and as such was opened for business here in premises west of the old Wesley Street theatre on Second avenue in the fall of 1910, a Mr. Williamson being in charge for the first couple of months. At the time of the fire at that theatre, the bank premises as well as all the building being left in ruins, and a short time after, the then manager, Mr. Upton, re-opened for business (still as the Union Bank) in the corner premises which have since been occupied on Main Street.

During the many years here the town has welcomed several managers, among them being Messrs. R. Davidson, E. K. Smith, P. Haynes and G. C. Siddall, and in August 1925 during the latter manager's regime, the Royal Bank took over the branch upon liquidation of the old Union Bank in August 1925. Mr. Siddall was replaced by Mr. W. O'Callaghan, the present manager, and that gentleman has held the respect and esteem of all with whom he has come in contact, since arriving here from Stettin where he had held the managerial chair for years.

It appears from information to hand the same situation has arisen in at least some six other places in Alberta, and that the lack of banking business existing in those places has been the direct cause of either the Bank of Montreal or the Royal Bank being left predominant in the towns affected.

It will no doubt be remembered that in an interview given in Edmonton some two months ago, Mr. M. W. Wilson, manager of the Royal Bank stated that the founding of the Central Bank of Canada would cause a situation as this in many places throughout the whole Dominion, but it seems truly unfortunate that Wainwright should be among the number to suffer the removal of such an institution as the local branch of the Royal Bank.

Little Donald Wilkins who has been in hospital for the past two weeks is progressing as favorably as can be expected, and we wish him speedy recovery to full health.

WEDDING BELLS

DUNCAN — REICH

At the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon last, the Rev. W. S. Brooker, pastor of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church, united in their marriage vows, Miss Edna Reich and Mr. John Lumsden Duncan, both of Wainwright. The happy couple were supported by Miss Ida Reich, sister of the bride, and Mr. J. Vibe, and later left for a short honeymoon before returning to take up their residence in town.

Poultry Producers To Cast Vote On Marketing Scheme

Every poultry producer with a flock of twenty-five birds or more will be given opportunity to vote for or against the proposed Alberta Poultry Marketing Scheme and the application of that scheme in the province will depend entirely upon such vote, a statement issued by the Alberta Poultry Marketing Board emphasizes.

Poultry producers are urged by the Board to fully acquaint themselves with the details of the proposed scheme before making their personal decisions. It is pointed out that the petitions condemning the scheme at present being circulated, are mainly from sources whose interests are not identical with those of the producers and the members of the Board are extremely anxious that producers fully satisfy themselves concerning both sides of the question before reaching a decision.

Temporary headquarters of the poultry marketing board have been opened at 606 Northern Investment Building, Edmonton. Copies of the marketing plan may be obtained from this office.

All poultry producers are also invited by the Board to register their names and addresses and the number of birds they control, with the Board at the above address, in order that these may be checked against the registered lists now being prepared, and thus absolutely insure the opportunity of voting for or against the proposal.

LOCAL NOTES

Mr. Raymond Garneau has now completed the building of a new small house on his property at Gill Edge.

The land to the immediate south of the C.N. property in town is being bought up by Mr. Bob Reid who is working his tractor on this job. Messrs. Smith and son who recently bought this land intend to break it up in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Bibby, who were business visitors to Edmonton for a couple of days during the past week.

School Principal H. P. Thoreson is away to the city for a day or so. He left on Tuesday.

Reeve Bob Smallwood and Coun. Burton, both of the Battle River M.D. Council are away to Calgary in attendance at the convention of Alberta municipalities.

Owing to a bad cold Mr. Earl Lee has been confined to his house for a couple of days this week.

Listen to this folks! The Harmony Minarets are returning to the Elite Theatre on Friday, December 7th. Keep the date open; it will be worth your while.

To attend a conference with the heads of the company, Mr. Percy Kirkpatrick, local supt. of the Calgary Power Co. spent two or three days in Edmonton at the week end.

We learn that Mr. Harry McNern left last week for Glenora where he intends to reside in the future.

Canadian Election To Be Held In 1935

Final Session of Present Parliament Will Precede Campaign

Advice from Ottawa says that the Canadian Parliament will not meet until the new year—probably late in January. There has been much speculation on the probability of a fall session and an early election, but it is apparent now that the House of Commons elected in the summer of 1930 will sit its full five years—an uncommon occurrence in this country. Political observers believe the election now will not be called until late summer or early fall.

Undoubtedly when Parliament meets the Liberals will demand dissolution and endeavor to force an immediate election. However, the Prime Minister, Mr. Bennett, has a good majority, and it is extremely unlikely that it can be stamped. Liberal confidence has been raised to a high pitch by the results of federal by-elections and provincial contests during the past year.

Canadian Live Fowl for France

Fifty white Leghorn cockerels and 150 pullets purchased from R.O.P. breeders in Western Ontario by L'Abbe A. Deckmyn, of Villers-en-Vexin, Eure, France, were shipped from Montreal direct to France per the S.S. Lesta, on November 15th. This consignment of white Leghorns will be used for breeding purposes on the large poultry farm managed by Abbe Deckmyn. Recently he came to Eastern Canada primarily to acquaint himself with the methods of poultry raising and the quality of the stock in this country and he was much impressed.

The recent sale is a result of contacts made by officers of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the World's Poultry Congress in London and Rome.

Real Hollywood Story For Elite Week End

A concentration on the human interest comedy, with broad suggestions as to what happens to a "smart guy" when he goes to Hollywood, and a real spectacular finale, gives to the Paramount talkie "Sitting Pretty" which shows at the Elite this week end for three days commencing Saturday, a medium of real patron attraction.

Such stars of the picture world as Oddie, Ginger Rogers, Thomas Todd, and the broadcasting chicken sisters appear in the cast and Jack Haley is sharing the lead. It is a combination musical comedy and light drama, and as is the case with many of this type of picture, ends up with everybody happy and satisfied, despite many struggles to "put it over". The Hollywood producers by the two comedians Parker and Pennington. One of the elaborate final scenes portrays the Sully Rand farm, interpreted by dozens of bandits of the ballet.

U.G.G. President Issues Statement

R. S. Law, president of United Grain Growers Limited, issued the following statement on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Company while in Edmonton for the annual meeting of United Grain Growers:

"Important inquiry and recommendation obviously by the board of grain commissioners, is required to learn if bear raids were made recently on the Winnipeg exchange by outside interests, and if regulation by the exchange against such attempts is needed."

Mr. Law said that it is "obvious" that such matters are not to be satisfactorily settled by a series of contradictory statements issued to the press or by representations by interested parties made directly to the government.

He declared that the board of grain commissioners "commands the respect and confidence of the country" and that the body could be given the status of a commission of inquiry.

Mr. Law said that "the present regulation of grain handling under the provisions of the Canadian Grain Act and the board of grain commissioners represents the accomplishment of years of experience and study, and is to be regarded as a substantial and satisfactory achievement. Whatever changes may from time to time be required in connection with grain handling should be based on the solid foundation already established."

Quite a merry crowd enjoyed the dance on Friday last at the theatre which was staged by the boys of the Buffalo Rangers hockey club.

We are informed that Russell Strandberg the young victim of a shooting accident at Hughtenside some ten days ago, was taken to the city on Sunday for the purpose of having the injured eye removed.

met in the Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday last at their regular meeting, the occasion being the annual official visit of the provincial head of that branch of the Order in the person of Mrs. M. Davies, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Alberta.

The visitor was welcomed upon arrival here by several lady members of the order, by whom she was entertained during her stay, and at the session held in the evening she was accompanied by Miss A. Flewelling, D.P., of Irma, Mrs. Crockett, D.P., of Hardisty, Mrs. O. S. Martin, P.P., of Hardisty, Bro. O. S. Martin, Grand Master for Alberta, P.G.P., and Bro. W. Huntingford, G.R., P.G.P., all of whom addressed the gathering on matters pertaining to the work and ethics of the Order.

During the session a team of seven sisters of Adeline lodge exemplified the beautiful degree of their branch, under the direction of Sister J. Billing, P.N.G., for which work great compliments were extended to them. At the close of the ritualistic work, a delicious supper was served by a committee under the guidance of Sister B. Hughes, to which nearly fifty sat down, and during the proceedings a vocal solo by the guest of honor (Mrs. Davies), and a vocal duet by the Mrs. Davies and Sister M. Carrell were greatly enjoyed.

A large number of sisters and brothers from adjacent towns were present for the occasion.

Warmer Climate Cruises Arranged By Can. National

In preparation for the winter season of travel from the Atlantic ports of Halifax and Boston to the Caribbean colonies in the south, a series of 34 attractive cruises have been arranged on an all-expense basis, taking the vacationist along a unique route throughout the British West Indies, Victor E. Eke, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian National Steamships announced a few days ago. These winter cruises now include first-class steamship accommodation with outside stateroom and meals, hotel accommodation and meals at terminal port, and an unusual variety of attractive shore excursions at various points, where ample time is available for passengers to acquaint themselves with the many interesting features typical of Caribbean colonies.

Nine of these cruises, occupying a period of three weeks, will take the winter vacationist to the tropical island of Jamaica, via Bermuda and Nassau, with calls at these ports both ways. Three and a half days are spent in Jamaica full of unusual interest, with automobile drives to outlying districts famed for beauty and historical associations. These cruises are aboard the Lady Rodney and Lady Somers, with sailings from Halifax commencing November 28 and every fortnight thereafter up to March 20, with departures from Boston two days later.

Thirteen other cruises, each of four weeks duration, also leave from the same Atlantic ports for British Guiana in South America by the steamers Lady Nelson, Lady Drake and Lady Hawkins, with calls at the beautiful tropical islands of Bermuda, St. Kitts, Nevis, Antigua, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Lucia, Barbados, St. Vincent, Grenada and Trinidad both ways. These sailings are from Halifax commencing November 25 and from Boston two days later, with frequent departures thereafter during the winter season. In addition to two days stay in British Guiana, three delightful days are spent at Barbados en route.

Four cruises, each of three weeks duration, take the visitor to the healthy and equable climate of the island of Barbados during their four days en route, calls being made at several interesting ports both going and returning. Sailings take place aboard the steamer Lady Nelson southbound, leaving from Halifax December 2, January 6, February 10 and March 17 and from Boston two days later. In keeping with the plan of excursions for the other cruises, this voyage includes island drives and special bathing parties at various islands en route.

SKEET SHOOTING

12. SOME CANADIAN TRAPSHOOTERS

HERE are a few personalities among trapshooters on the Pacific Coast, which will be of interest to you.

True Oliver, Ladner, has quite a record as a clay-buster, having won the B. C. Championship on seven different occasions: 1907, 1910, 1911, 1914, 1925, 1927 and 1931.

True was one of the first life members of the Amateur Trapshooters' Association and was a member of the Canadian Olympic Team Shooting at Antwerp, Belgium, in 1920. In 1925 he captured the Pacific Coast Zone Handicap title with a score of 97 x 100 from the 15-yard line. He represented B. C. at the Grand American Handicap shoot held in Chicago in 1921 and in the Champion of Champions' race broke 194 x 200, breaking his first 112 straight.

C. W. (Bill) McLean won the B. C. Championship in 1928 with 195 x 200 and the all-around Championship with 330 x 350 and was runner-up in the doubles with 44 x 50. He also captured the title in 1929 with 191 x 200 and was runner-up in the doubles with 43 x 50 and in the all-around championship. In 1930 he won the handicap trophy with 96 x 100 shooting from the 21-yard mark and in 1925 won the handicap from 20 yards with a perfect score, 25 x 25. Bill also has won the city championship on three occasions, 1930, 1931 and 1933.

D. V. (Doug) McCarty of Victoria has also a fine record, having won the B. C. Single Championship in 1930 with 192 x 200 and the all-around Championship with 330 x 350. In 1932, he won the Singles Championship with 98 x 100, winning from his team-mate, John Wenger, after a shoot-off, Doug making a possible 25 against John's 24. In that year he also was victorious in the Skeet Championship with 45 x 50. In 1932, he won the State Championship of the Pacific Coast at Lake Crescent with a score of 374 x 400, the all-around Championship of the Pacific Coast and was second in the World's Championship Shoot at Los Angeles with 168 x 200. He has won the Vancouver Island Championship on two different occasions and has enough trophies to fill a good-sized room.

If you have clipped and kept the preceding eleven articles in this series, you have now a fair outline of Skeet, the sport that is so rapidly gaining ground here, a number of clubs having already been formed from coast to coast. Further information will gladly be sent to you upon application to "Dominion Marksmen," Box 1260, Montreal, P.Q.

DEMOCRACY and the I hear people saying everywhere that "democracy is on trial." The implication is, of course, that the democratic system of giving every citizen an equal voice in public affairs is still an untried experiment, that isn't working out any too well.

Well, we have been running on that system for considerably more than 150 years, here in the United States. We've had plenty of trouble, but as I look back over my own lifetime, and read what happened before that began, it seems to me that democracy as practised in this country has worked out better than any of the systems that have been tried anywhere else in the world.

I don't think it is perfect, by any means. But neither is anything else in the world.

I don't think it is perfect, by any means. But neither is anything else that involves human nature and human relations. But any system that in a comparatively short period of time can raise the poorest nation in the world into the richest, spread the benefits of civilization and comfort among a much higher proportion of the people than any other system, anywhere, has ever done, can't be altogether bad.

IMPATIENCE trouble

Most of the world's troubles come from trying to do things in too much of a hurry. That is true in the case of individuals; it is particularly true in the case of these groups of individuals which we call nations.

I know that about all the real trouble I have ever had in my life has come because I was too impatient to wait for results but tried to force events to happen before the time was ripe for them. And I am certain that nine-tenths of the world's troubles today root back to the same sort of impatience.

If it were not for impatience we would not see Russia today under the domination of a ruthless and despotic handful of Bolsheviks, Italy controlled by a dictator, Germany under the iron heel of a tyrant. Grant that the purposes of all these and other dictators is the noble one of making their countries better places to live in—in the future. I prefer a system which gives the living present first consideration.

I have seen too many predictions go wrong to believe that any kind of large-scale planning for the future of a whole people can ever work out according to plan. Even single individuals responsible for the fate of themselves, seldom find that their plans for themselves will work.

REFORMERS through years

I have no quarrel with those who would remake the world. I can think of quite a few improvements that I could wish we had. But I cannot work myself up to enthusiasm for schemes to remodel civilization, or any minor part of the human scene, by any swifter processes than the slow ones of education and evolution.

The reformer is always a fanatic. That is not a term of reproach. It means merely a person possessed of one idea, who is perfectly sure that he alone is right. Practically all of the progress the world has made has been instigated in the first instance by fanatics. Sometimes they have been right. Usually they have been wrong. Urged upon the world comes about a few centuries or so after they have sowed the seed.

Any proposal for reforming the social order is a dream until it has been talked about long enough to make a controlling majority of the people believe in its possibility. And even then there is no guarantee that they will like it, after they have tried it.

FOLKWAYS ingrained

The habits, customs and outlook on life of any given race, group or nation are conveniently referred to as "folkways." They are the ideas handed down from generation to generation, the ways of doing things which have become so natural to the group that they are "in the blood." Anybody who wants to bring about a radical change in social relations needs to watch his step when it comes to interfering with the folkways people. He may succeed, by violence and terrorization, in enforcing outward compliance with the new order, but down underneath the folkways will still assert themselves.

In the back country of Italy, I was told by a wise Roman, the peasants go to church like the rest of the people, but the folkways ingrained for thousands of years before Christ remain with them. They believe, among themselves, in what they call "la vecchia religione"—the "old religion" of their pagan ancestors.

I notice that Mr. Hitler is having plenty of trouble trying to regulate the religion of the entire German nation. Mussolini was wiser than to try anything of that sort.

TODAY & TOMORROW

CHURCHES salvation

Somehow, I can't escape the feeling that a good many ministers and a good many churches are going outside of their province in taking part in or encouraging efforts at wholesale reforms. I speak as a churchman and a profound believer in the message of the church. But when I hear ministers taking part in economic discussion and encouraging the idea of making the world over night, I wonder if they believe that salvation of any kind can be accomplished except one by one.

When I am inclined to get impatient with the slowness of humanity's progress toward perfection I go home and re-read that great old book by John Bunyan, "Pilgrim's Progress."

Reading time—4 Minutes

She was standing at the roadside with a briefcase under her arm as I slowed up the car east of Needles, Cal. Ordinarily I don't pick up hitch hikers, but this young and blonde, that type of ash white blonde that runs thirty to the dozen on the Hollywood boulevards. She was pretty too, in spite of the Mojave desert dust, and bleary eyed sleepiness which subsequent conversation revealed had been acquired aboard a five ton truck.

"How far east are you going?" I asked.

"All the way to Sylvia, Kansas." I thought that I had her catalogued pretty accurately and told her so "Beauty Contest Winner returning home because you couldn't get a break in the movies?"

"Just half right," she answered, grimly. "I'm a beauty contest winner returning home because I threatened to be a success."

"Director get fresh?" I ventured. "Yes, but not in the way you mean," she said. "I was a pretty green kid when I came out to Hollywood six months ago. It was the old story. I had some pictures of myself to show as winner of a local beauty contest and some high school theatrical experience to talk about. I managed to get a director straight one of the biggest in Hollywood. He was right from my own town. He was nice enough too, and made me realize that I'd need some lessons in dramatics and voice before he could find a part for me."

"I had a bit of money and managed to get a job as a waitress in the Blue Hat. I dropped right out of sight and put in all my spare time studying. I was going to take him by storm when I was ready."

"The day before yesterday he dropped in for lunch and saw me. He remembered me all right and called me over to his table."

"What has happened to you?" he asked.

"I told him all I had been doing and that I had planned to ask him for a screen test pretty soon."

"You look alright to me right now," he said. And your voice is swell. I've something in mind which I think will suit. Drop down to the studio this afternoon at four o'clock for a test on stage three."

"You can bet I was on time at that studio."

"The director had left word with the gateman to let me go to stage three. When I got there, however, he wasn't there. There weren't any lights or cameras either. Just a young man with glasses standing in front of a microphone."

"How about that test I'm to take?" I asked.

"We'll give it to you right now," he said. "And I'll bet you'll be a wow too! This is probably the beginning of a real movie career for you."

BRIDESMAIDS CHOSEN FOR ROYAL WEDDING

Eight bridesmaids will attend the Princess Marina of Greece on the occasion of her wedding to the Duke of Kent, youngest son of the king and queen, in Westminster Abbey on November 29.

The bridesmaids selected are: the Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands, Princess Irene and Princess Katharine of Greece, the Grand Duchess Klara of Russia, Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, Princess Eugenie of Greece, Lady Iris Mountbatten and Lady Mary Cambridge.

It is anticipated there will be three processions, namely their majesties, the bride and her parents and the bridegroom. Their majesties, it is expected, will drive in full state from Buckingham Palace to the Abbey with an escort of the household cavalry.

At a short interval they will be followed by the bride and her parents, who will be staying at Buckingham Palace as the guests of King George and Queen Mary. The Duke of Kent, better known as Prince George, will drive to the Abbey from his own residence, York House, probably accompanied by the Prince of Wales, who is expected to act as his brother's groomsman.

The FAMILY DOCTOR

LAXATIVES

This little conversation is for adults only—not children. And I deem it worth while. Probably three-fourths of our immense population are, at intervals, users of laxative medicines.

After more than forty years' active experience, I believe I may be able to offer some suggestions productive of good, on this subject by telling you of the kinds of laxatives that accomplish their purpose doing the minimum of harm.

Of course, correct diet of soft, easily-digested food should require no medicine of "laxative" nature. But we do not always eat in proper kind or quantity.

Probably the best all-purpose tablet for simple constipation is the well-known Aloin, Strychnine, Belladonna and Cascara, "laxative compound." I believe this tablet may be found in most of the drug stores of the land. The dose, one to three tablets at bedtime. I recommend "coated" tablets. They retain their strength longer.

Don't acquire the habit of trying every purgative pill that you hear of. A "pill-habit" is indeed bad company for the experimenter in constipation. The tablet above-named is reliable and harmless as any. Ask your doctor.

One class of constipated patients—those with trouble in the rectum, . . . should not take pills of any sort. A diseased rectum should be cared for. But not with pills—remember that.

These people should use only mineral oil, magnesia, or cascara sagrada—all liquids—that contain no aloes. Rectal patients must avoid all rectal irritants—and should observe strict diet rules. Eat no tough fibers, no seeds, no tough skins of fruit, but all soft food that is most easily digested. See your doctor.

Rambling 'Round New York

Hard-riding cowboys and cool weather are almost synonymous in New York each year when Madison Square Garden sounds the dull thud of hoofs on the imported dirt thrown on the floor that supports a succession of sports, political meetings, the circus, radio shows and what nots each year. The Rodeo is held every year, with many representatives of states of the southwest—both animals and men—roping and busting.

Even children are becoming kidnap conscious. Playmates told Carmen Cullen's parents that the seven-year-old had gone for a ride with a man and woman after school. Hundreds of Brooklyn Police stopped looking four hours later when an aunt explained that Carmen was with her.

When New Yorkers default on jewelry installment payments, they may get letters from a Mr. Urquhart, a Mr. Bryan, the National Jewelers Protective Bureau and no less than the "Retail Board of Trade." They are all in the same office. And Mr. Urquhart, recently explained, "I am the Retail Board of Trade." He registered the name with the County Clerk, because "just ordinary letters" don't hurry payments enough.

A new survey shows that since 1920 the Negro population of Harlem has shifted and spread surprisingly. There are many colored people now living between 122nd and 135th streets and Riverside Drive on the West to Amsterdam Avenue on the East. They are migrating to better homes. From 183,000 in 1920, Harlem's Negro population has increased to 204,000 in 1934.

The Waldorf-Astoria hotel has actually gone the limit in their decision about a new bar: it is to be a stand-up bar for men, and for men only. They really mean it.

The luxury trades in New York are reported to be doing the best business in months. Hotels, night clubs, cafes, restaurants are crowded to the doors these days, and florists, jewelers and dressmakers are delighted. No one seems to know quite why, but they're all pleased as punch.

Gertrude Stein, whose writings are done in a way that few people can understand them, will return to the United States for the first time in thirty years. She has refused a thousand dollars a lecture for a series, and only intends to lecture at six American universities. Miss Stein will sail October 17th.

A well-known publicity man in New York rarely sends out news under his own name, preferring a high-sounding association name or "information bureau" for his letterheads. The address, of course, in his office, and the telephone girl answers calls by repeating the telephone number—of course, she can't know which one of the associations or bureaus might be wanted.

You can put an empty bottle on the table. First man puts two parallel toothpicks on top. Next man, two more at right angles. And so around the table till they all fall, like a house of cards. The man that makes them fall buys the next round of drinks. The game's in vogue in New York.

DISTINCTIVE FROCK

Pattern 5329: With the arrival of the Fall season—social activities take on a more formal aspect, and a certain formality of dress is expected. This fall it is formality with a flutter! Choose this style and you will acquire a reputation for chic as well as for charm.

Notice the skirt is slimly moulded with a slight flare introduced for walking. The lower V neckline is new and always flattering to the neck. You will like the slim-as-a-stem sleeves. They give finishing touches to this smart silhouette. Choose crepes or satins. Black is favorable but colors for contrast are more important than white. Wines, berry tones, deep blues and greens appear in delightful new shades.

Experimental Farms News

BARLEY FOR HOGS

Due to extremely low price of grain during the last few years, it has been necessary for the farmer to seek some method of marketing his cereals more profitably than would be possible through direct sales. For barley, at least, this margin of profit may be obtained by marketing via the hog route.

In order to determine the value of barley for feeding and finishing select hogs, the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, conducted a series of four tests involving 136 spring and fall pigs; in each test, four lots of pigs were fed four different proportions of barley chop. The pigs in each lot were self-fed, received their normal dressed poultry and all the water they would drink. The average weight of the pigs when put on test was sixty-three pounds.

The lot fed one part and 3 parts barley made a higher daily gain with lower feed consumption than any of the other lots, and gained equally well. The results of the straight barley feeding too, were favorable.

CONTROL OF NORTHERN FOWL MITE

Experimental work on the control of the northern fowl mite on poultry, on the perches and in pens housed at Macdonald College, has shown that a mixture of naphthalene flakes one part and vaseline two parts has given one hundred per cent control on birds and on perches. The naphthalene should be thoroughly ground up with straw to facilitate mixing and application, and then stirred into the vaseline. A small amount was applied on the birds around the tail where the mites invariably congregate. The perches were also treated, but in this case none of the mixture was placed upon the birds. Repeated tests have been made and all have been correspondingly satisfactory.

Dichloride and vaseline, in the same proportions, have also given satisfactory results. There are, however, two points in connection with the use of dichloride which makes it less desirable than naphthalene, namely, it costs more and tends to liquify the vaseline. This makes the application more difficult. For some time, Black Leaf 40 (nicotine sulphate) has been used on perches in the control of the northern fowl mite, but comparative tests in the laboratory indicate that its action is slower than either that of naphthalene or dichloride, and where a large area is to be covered, its costs is considerable.

EARLY MARKETING

The early marketing of well-finished birds in commercial quantities was well demonstrated by farmers during the last two weeks of October in Quebec and Eastern Ontario where the first poultry pools of the year have been held. The question as to whether or not early poultry marketing could be successfully in a large way by farmers, from a quality standpoint, says the Egg and Poultry Market Review, has been definitely answered, the producers in these districts having demonstrated by planning ahead that the crop of chickens from practically any district in Ontario and Quebec can be produced and made ready for sale when the market demands it. The average weight of the pool pack in Quebec has been around 5 pounds per bird, with a number of boxes of Milkfed A weights over 80 pounds. The Milkfed A chickens were produced by crate feeding from 4 to 5 weeks. The early movement of dressed poultry from Western to Eastern points was also commenced in the third week of October.

WINTER HOUSING OF BROOD SOWS

Proper winter housing is just as important to the brood sow as careful feeding. Her demands are few and simple; it is more important that the bed be clean and dry than that it be warm. The essentials are protection from wind, rain and snow, with sufficient straw for a comfortable bed.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, six foot by eight foot colony houses are placed side by side about two feet apart, facing south, with the straw, and backed with straw. A burp bag or piece of burlap canvas is hung from the top of the door, to stop drafts. The bedding in every house is changed every two weeks. Each house provides shelter for three or four sows.

If none of these cabins are already available, now is a good time to build some, while lumber and labour are both cheap. These houses are inexpensive and easily built, and serve in both summer and winter. Plans for the construction of these cabins will be supplied free on request by the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe.

In order to induce the sows to take exercise, they are fed at the corner of the yard farthest from the cabins.

Over 50 people—including pretty girls, wonderfully entrancing musical bands, and the stage setting, full of chitra. All are included in the opera "Miss Cherryblossom" at the Elite Theatre on Friday evening next. Curtain rises at EIGHT sharp. Reserve your seat NOW at the Standard Pharmacy.

INDIGESTION Those who suffer discomfort which apparently arises in the abdomen and which is supposedly associated with the digestion of food describe their complaint as "indigestion" or "dyspepsia". It is interesting to note, in passing, that "indigestion" is a poor term because there is no lack of digestion; what is meant is poor digestion, and the reason why digestion is blamed is because it is making itself felt, so indigestion is conscious digestion.

The stomach is commonly blamed for the trouble. Important digestive processes take place in the stomach as they do in the mouth, but the most profound part of digestion occurs in the intestines. The stomach is blamed because the nausea, eructations and vomiting, which are the common symptoms, seem to arise in the stomach.

The digestive process may be upset because of the condition of any one of the digestive organs. Most diseases affect the behavior of the stomach. Nausea and vomiting mark the onset of most of the communicable diseases. Disease of the heart is reflected in digestive upsets. The situation is further complicated by many cases which have no organic basis, but which arise out of emotional disturbances of which the patient may or may not be aware. The various parts of the body are controlled through the nervous system. Some of these functions are under our control so that we can move our body about at will; others are practically automatic, but can be brought under control, such as the act of breathing; others again, and this applies to most of the internal organs, are entirely automatic and beyond our conscious control. The digestive tract is regulated in this automatic fashion.

An important function of this nervous control is to keep the digestive canal at the proper tension, neither collapsed nor distended. A sudden loss of tension in the stomach gives rise to a feeling of nausea. Emotional upsets, worries or shocks bring this about by their indirect action on the nervous control of the stomach. In a manner which we cannot explain, the emotions may affect the behavior of the whole digestive tract. The loss of appetite associated with excitement, the nausea which is related to offensive odors, the diarrhoea following a mental shock, are all examples of this. This emotional and nervous mechanism must be appreciated when an attempt is made to understand the indigestions for which there is apparently no organic cause to be found.

PAUL'S GREAT WRITINGS

That white-hot letter to the Galatians, product of Paul's intense moral indignation, whose curses remain untranslated because the translators have feared to put them into plain English, is the Magna Charta of Christian liberty. It is the rebuke of bigotry and the battle cry of freedom.

Paul soon set forth on his third and last missionary journey. He started northward as he had done before, passing from Antioch by land around the end of the Mediterranean, preaching as he went.

There he came to Ephesus. There he seemed to find an opening in the Jewish synagogue, but after three months a sharp clash arose, and he rented a schoolroom from a philosopher using it half a day and Paul the other half. He took a two years' lease of this place and developed his extension service so fully.

that all they which dwell in Asia (the province, not the continent) heard that word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks. The growth of his body of adherents was so remarkable that in this city where the beautiful temple of Diana stood, and her shrine was sacred, the idol makers were almost out of work.

WORTH REMEMBERING!

Few people ever stop to think of the work that goes to make the newspaper the most effective advertising medium yet devised in this up-to-the-minute world of ours. A newspaper is a welcome visitor in every home because it carries such a varied and descriptive interpretation of every day and world news. Local happenings are vividly read by the homeowners at home and away from home.

A newspaper is the most effective advertising medium because it creates a responsive reception for the advertising it carries. That people are susceptible to the buying urge in their own paper is a factor that is many times overlooked.

Remember—it takes time, money, effort and organization to keep the newspaper the most effective advertising medium yet devised.

THE PEOPLE'S RESPONSIBILITY

No apology need be offered for a again discussing the ever mounting toll of deaths and serious injuries attributable to automobile accidents. The most effective way of minimizing as far as possible these tragedies is, it will be admitted, the arousing of public opinion, because unless public opinion is aroused, all the preventive laws in the world will not prove effective.

Only last week, the writer's car was damaged to the extent of a smashed windshield by the action of a crazy fool driver on the highway near Vermilion who was overtaking the car at a speed which could not have been less than fifty miles an hour in new loose gravel with the result that the passengers in the lower-speed car were covered with finely splintered glass (happily without serious results—no thanks to the culprit).

In conversation with the writer the other day a mother of a family, careful, conscientious, intelligent and of the very best type of Canadian citizenship, one who takes a keen and active interest in all movements for the betterment of the community and province in which she lives, stated that only recently she and her husband had had the narrowest of escapes from a serious and probably fatal car accident. Let us recite the simple circumstances.

Driving at a moderate rate, her husband at the wheel came to a point where the making of a left turn was necessary. He proceeded to make it. At the same moment the driver of a car behind them speeding at forty miles an hour decided to pass ahead. Without slackening speed and without awaiting his turn in turning to the car ahead, he shot past, thus violating the rules of the road in at least two respects. He side-swiped the car in which the lady and her husband were driving, smashed a headlight to smithereens, tore off the front bumper and all but wrecked the car. But when the lady, we too, were to blame because my husband had neglected to put out his hand indicating his intention to make the left turn. Fortunately no person was hurt.

All simple things—failure to sound a horn before attempting to pass the car ahead, failure to reduce speed when overtaking or passing the car ahead, failure of the car ahead to indicate its proposed change of direction, and three lives endangered, several children narrowly escaped being orphaned, two families barely saved from heart-breaking sorrow and suffering. The laws were sound enough, a policeman right on the spot could not have enforced these laws in time to prevent a tragedy. Two individuals were alone responsible for placing their own lives and that of others in jeopardy. Either one of them could have avoided this near calamity.

It is probable that as these lines are being written other near-accidents of a more or less similar nature are taking place, and possibly serious injuries and even death are the result. Who is to blame? The people themselves. Nobody else. And much accidents will continue and will multiply until people by observing all laws and regulations and through the exercise of proper caution at all times put an end to such accident.

In this article, too, emphasis may well be placed upon the terrible menace of "glaring headlights." They are prohibited by law, yet are to be found upon practically every road and highway every night. Glaring headlights—these blind the driver of any approaching car, making it impossible for him to judge his distance from the approaching car which has blinded him, or to see what is ahead of him. And because one car has such lights burning, the other driver refuses to dim his lights, and two high powered cars rush at each other—sometimes they pass safely, sometimes they do not, and all too frequently even when a head-on crash does not result, one or both cars end up in the ditch, or meet some other fate.

The owner of the "glaring headlights" is apparently quite reckless and indifferent to the fact that by blinding the drivers of approaching cars he may be inviting his own death, because the blinded driver may smash into him; and when driver No. 2 refuses to dim his lights because the other fellow did not, he is only multiplying his own risks because he is blinding the other fellow. Again, who is to blame for the catastrophes which so frequently follow? Not the law, because the actions of these car drivers are unlawful. Nor can any army of policemen be maintained along every highway to enforce the law. The best that is possible is to make examples of people when they can be caught.

It is people themselves who are to blame, and it is well nigh impossible to identify the culprits because the glaring lights renders the taking of car license numbers extremely difficult. It is public opinion that must be first aroused and educated to put a stop to these violations. It is not legislators, governments and politicians which alone have responsibility in this matter; the greatest responsibility rests with the individual in far greater number than at present citizen. And until individual citizens discharge that responsibility, humanity must pay the price, and this terrible toll rest upon our much vaunted civilization—Exchange.

There is much sound "hoss sense" in the following from a recent article by Mr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., L.L.D., entitled "The Place of Business in Canadian Life," that we feel it is worth repeating. He says in part: "I believe that I say no more than the truth when I assert that as far as concerns what Providence can do for us the fault is not that too little has been given us."

"What we can do for ourselves is another matter. We have made many and grave errors in the utilization of our heritage. We have often followed the will-o'-the-wisp of immediate money profits rather than the safer road of the slow building of real wealth. We have installed into our young people too great faith in short-cuts to prosperity rather than deep confidence in industry and thrift. We have permitted sectional and class interests to lead us into extravagances in public works. We have piled up a great debt and public debt is a burden on private business however much ingenious theorists may try to prove that it is not. We have plunged into great and ill-planned schemes of expansion of private enterprise. Through it all, however, we have kept fairly sober. We have not lost all our instincts of industry and thrift."

Just 50c for a two-dollar show. The best production this season, "Miss Cherryblossom" at the Elite theatre on Friday evening next. Commences at EIGHT p.m. sharp.

Among those present from this district at the veteran's banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. O. Croteau, Mr. and Mrs. F. Seabrook, Mrs. Glenn and Mr. and Mrs. D. Jones.

Rev. Mrs. Bateman were visiting in the district on Wednesday.

you are right, but in attacking the actual clergy who protested, you are wrong, for they are largely men who realize something of what Christianity really is, and demands.

The whole subject is complicated, but one thing is clear, we parents ask Professors to teach their own subjects and not gratuitously attack our religion. They may do what they like out of class hours: we don't mind, but our sons and daughters must be protected or we will make trouble. The University is supported by the taxpayer and he will jolly well see that his religion is not interfered with, or know the reason why.

Yours sincerely,
ANXIOUS PARENT

Few Minutes Eases Neuritis Pains Now!

DISCOVERY BRINGING QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN TO MILLIONS

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Neuritis and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin. Aspirin has been found that Aspirin does even a bad headache, neuritis, rheumatism, etc. pain often in a few minutes. Aspirin starts in the glass and the Aspirin starts to dissolve. It is in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. It is the best of all the world of your pain.

practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart. Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Get 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these 2 seconds happens in your stomach—Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Here and There

What a practical newspaperman finds interesting on a cruise around the world in the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain can be counted upon to capture the imagination of stay-at-homes. Last winter Alan Laurie Irwin, a Montreal writer, made the cruise. He is a keen, keen-eyed, outgoing people and strange customs. So he set down and wrote a book which is illustrated by photographs he made with his own camera, filled with amusing sidelights and interesting facts. Now, under the comprehensive title "—and ships— and sailing was" the book is on Macmillan's list.

MYSTERY DRAMA COMES TO ELITE NEXT WEEK

For mystery picture fans, the Universal film "Affairs of a Gentleman" which comes to the theatre on Wednesday and Thursday only of next week (November 28-29), has abundant values and situations.

"Who killed Gresham? and why?" is the essence of this dramatic talkie, and no less than six women and two men all may have had a motive and are therefore under suspicion. In turn, the finger of guilt points to each, only one could have been the killer. And, too, occasionally throughout the scene one can also sense that the victim might have been a suicide.

The complicated romances make for stirring love interest, and the comedy sequences are accentuated by the dumb methods of some of the police up against a case too deep for their intellect.

Of course, the finale will explain everything on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Sunday School Lesson

By Chas. Dunn

The Christian Steward

Lesson for November 25th

Matt. 25:14-30.

Gospel Text: Matt. 25:21.

It is a significant fact that most people do not know how to distribute their income.

They have no budget system, and no philosophy of stewardship. An expert on income management once gave me interesting glimpses of the manner in which people give to the church. She told me of an annual income of $2800 who spent $208 a year on recreation, and gave only $12 to the church, less than one-half of one per cent of his means. Another man she interviewed was paid a salary of $10,000 a year and gave only $100 or one per cent, to the church while he spent $600 on a saddle horse.

If folk would take membership in the Christian church as seriously as their daily work and recreation the churches would not have to beg for financial support. An abundance of funds would be available. For instead of presenting to God a mere pittance, everyone would feel ashamed not to give a decent part of his income on a regular basis. St. Paul well stated the rule of Christian giving when he said, "Upon the first day of the week let everyone of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him."

Someone has written: "I am a nickel. I am not on speaking terms with the motorman, I am too small to sit in the movies, I am not large enough to buy a necktie. I am a small consideration in the purchase of gasoline, I am used as a tip. But, believe me, when I get into church or the missionary society, I am money." It is plain that the rank and file are not conscientious in their giving for they fail to take to heart the Christian principle that we are trustees, for the time being, of God's wealth, and must devote it to the highest uses. Thus few deserve the cordial "Well done" of our Golden Text.

True economy is wise expenditure.

THE PROPHET'S CORNER

POINTED QUESTIONS

Answered from the Word of God
Question No. 1—How can I know that there is a God?
"The heavens the glory of God and this earth showeth forth his handy-work."

"Let all the nations be gathered together, and let the people be assembled; who among them can declare this, and show us former things?" let them bring forth their witnesses that they may be justified; or let them hear, and say, IT IS TRUTH . . . that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed neither shall there be after me.

"For, lo, I will command, and all the house of Israel among all nations like as corn is sown in a sieve. . . and they shall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without an image, and without a graven thing, and they shall dwell in the captivity of my people Israel, and I will plant them upon their own land."

"For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse. God hath spoken unto us by his Son."

"And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father) full of grace and truth."

"No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him."

"He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore heareth them not because ye are not of God."

"The Father . . . Believeth thou that I am in the Father, and the Father in me?"

"But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the SON OF GOD; and that, believing, ye might have life through his name."

"[This the beginning of a series of vital questions answered directly from the word of God. Watch for the next, "How can I know that the Bible is true?"]

Warmer Climate Cruises

In addition to these twenty-six cruises conducted aboard the "Lady" liners, eight "vagabond cruises" of about 30 days duration have also been arranged to Bermuda, Puerto Rico, Barbados, Trinidad and British Guiana, commencing from Halifax December 22, with periodic departures thereafter from each month throughout the winter season. These are aboard the passenger-carrying freighters Colborne and Chomely, each of which carry first-class accommodation for 20 passengers and designed for those who wish an inexpensive month-long voyage among a small group of fellow-passengers.

These all-expense cruises have been arranged to meet popular demand and the needs of those who desire a vacation voyage to tropical colonies comparatively close to our shores, which have their unique features not to be found elsewhere and which also present during the winter season many out-door attractions that cannot be enjoyed in northern latitudes.

GREENSHIELDS

Friday night a large crowd gathered at the hall and enjoyed the dance which was in aid of the funds for the school Christmas concert.

When she was opposite a wide door, Ellen gave up the idea she could longer resist. Slipping from the arms that held her, she thrust one slender hand into a large strong hand that clutched at it, eagerly.

"Let's go!" she said jauntily. At least she tried to say it jauntily. As she cut her cloak from the room in which it was checked, as she powdered her straight little nose, as she carefully reddened her lips, Ellen told herself that this strange emotion she was feeling must be suppressed. She also told herself that she must walk carefully. That she must remember that she didn't even know the young man's name, and that she wasn't even interested in knowing it!

But she'd been twice around the park in a cab with the young man, still nameless, before she remembered that it was Sandy who had taken her to the Six Arts Ball. And who should by all rights, have been allowed to take her home from it!

Three times around the park they rode before they began to get accustomed to the wonder of it all. For it wasn't the sort of thing that Claire would have referred to as "pash". It was something less easy to understand—and yet far more simple—than a petting party would have been. It was something that couldn't be regulated with a slap, with a sharp word, with a jest!

They had come out of the hotel in which the Six Arts Ball was being held, in a sort of a mist. When they had met in the hallway, with every-day coats inconspicuously covering bizarre costumes, they had been almost shy with each other—almost afraid to look each other in the eye.

Climbing into a taxi, they settled back in separate corners. But the young man's hand, groping out across the clammy leather seat, found Ellen's hand, clung to it, and finally drew her close.

"I suppose you think I'm crazy," he said.

"You see," the boy's voice was carefully held in leash, "you see, I've been watching you all evening as you danced with all the fat old bums in the world. Cold sober, you were—in the whole roomful the only one that was cold sober! Listening to their kidding, and kidding them back, but only with half of you on the job. With the other half of you as far away as if you were in a garden."

Ellen interrupted, and there was a sob in her voice. What, incredible chance had prompted him to make that comparison?

"Not that!" she said. "Not a garden..."

"And I thought," the boy went on —and his lips were pressed hotly against the palms of those hands.

headless of interruption, "I've got to get away from it all. Because she—because I feel that she belongs—to me!"

There was a so much emphasis in his use of the two words, "to me," that Ellen jumped. She couldn't help it.

"You haven't been drinking, yourself?" she questioned, on a note that she tried to make cynical. "You haven't been—"

The boy answered.

"Don't pull that sort of a line," he told her fiercely, "not now. We're away from the dance floor! This isn't the kind of stuff that I say to just everybody. I'm—I'm falling for you. This isn't anything to trifle with. This is a serious matter. It's our whole lifetime!"

"What do you know about lifetimes, yours and mine?" she asked. "How do you know you'll trust even one day to a girl like me—a girl who goes to an artist's ball in pants, short velvet pants! Do you know who—what I am? Well, I'm a model by profession. You've been to the movies, you've heard about models. How do you know I'm that, is technically called 'nice'? How do you know, in view of my profession, that trifling isn't best for the two of us?"

"How do I know?" he queried huskily. How does anyone know anything at a time like this? I've heard, before, about love at first sight. I've kidded about it. But I didn't know what it meant. I didn't know that it hit you like a disease. He paused, and then—

"Personally, I don't care now, whether you're nice," he told Ellen, "I care for you. I don't care even care if you wear your velvet pants on Fifth Avenue in the middle of the afternoon. I don't care about anything, except that I'm mad for you! I," the boy gulped suddenly to make the words come clear, "I don't actually know whether or not I can trust one short day to you," he said with a sort of desperation, "but I'd take a chance on trusting you with my soul!"

As he spoke his head was bent low over the hands that he was holding and his lips were pressed hotly against the palms of those hands.

And Ellen, looking down through the darkness at his head, bent above her hands—bearing, as through a dream, the whirr of the car's motor—was feeling the same madness, too. Why, the boy was right. He was right. It was love.

But, in the grayish darkness, Ellen was going back to her mother. Strange how close her mother was tonight! Closer than she'd been even in those first early moments of grief, three years ago.

"I met him at costume dance, your father..." So had run her mother's story. "We weren't even introduced..." He just came up...

"We waited away..." And he kissed me...

So the story had gone—running almost parallel to the event of this evening. Perhaps, if she let her own story go along as it had started it would continue to run parallel with her mother's. But—

And yet Ellen herself wanted to be swept away—she, herself, wanted to be a complete conquest. She'd have to fight that desire. To fight it as her mother had told her she must. As her mother had told her!

With the boy's lips burning against her palms, she made the resolve. With her head bent above his bowed head, Ellen heard herself saying sharply, and aloud—

"I won't get me. It won't spoil my life!"

The bowed head was raised. Blue eyes—deeper blue, because they were wet—sought across the shadows for her own.

"What won't get you?" the boy asked.

"You!" she said fiercely. "I won't let you get me. I never fall in love. I can't. Because I have nothing to give, not a thing! I'm sort of a spiritual gold-digger, at heart. Oh, I'm an artist!" she didn't wait to make the admission, but she had to!

"I've kept away from it all because I don't want to live close enough to any folk so that I'll get to care for them. Because when you care for anyone, that person can hurt you. I want my voice to be mine to an odd, hysterical, shrill whisper, 'I won't be hurt.'"

The gray in the sky had lightened. The taxi driver, with a shrug, had started his fourth circuit of the park.

But the boy in the taxi was staring into Ellen's eyes.

"Of course," "if you'll marry me, I'll take a chance on that! On your not having anything to give, I mean. On your not falling in love. If you'll marry me!" There was assurance in his voice, as well as passion.

"I don't understand," she said at last, in answer to that proposal.

"You don't understand at all what I'm trying to say. Men! In my life men are just transients. They'll always be just passers-by!"

The boy's arm was around her, tight. "There's one man," he said, "who won't be transient, or a passer-by, in your life."

Ellen repeated again from the formula. She shut her eyes and said over the words that she had said, not so very long ago, to Dick, "After all," she said, and she repeated the words, parrot-like, "after all, what's the advantage of marriage, as it concerns me?"

It was almost light enough now for Ellen to see the hurt look in the boy's eyes. Almost, but not quite. She said fiercely in her soul that she hadn't any right to look so hurt. This attitude that she was taking—surely she felt the pain of it as much as anyone! And then, too, she was saving him.

"After all," he said slowly, "married to me you wouldn't have to worry. You know. Or to worry about financial things. Or—babies— not if you really didn't want 'em. And you could have all the privacy in the world, in the biggest apartment c—Park avenue—married to me, you could. How do you get that way?"

Ellen laughed, although there was no mirth in her.

"You sound," she said, "like a millionaire! How do you get that way?"

In his rumpled Pierrot suit, with his jaw square than ever above the dejected ruff, the boy made his answer. His tone held a certain bewilderment, a certain diffidence.

"I forgot," he said, "that you didn't know my name. Odd, isn't it? To be arguing with a girl, trying to sell her your own special brand of marriage, when she doesn't know your name. I'm—my name's Brander, Tony Brander. Anthony Brander, and you know what he stood for, was my father. I am a millionaire, you see... I got that way because my father cornered sugar, once!"

Ellen's eyes grew wide. Her mind was a confusion of words. At first the boy's halting speech didn't register. It was still just a slice of unreality. But when the confusion began to clear, she experienced a direct sense of something that was almost anger. What right had he to think that dollars mattered? What earthly right? She wanted to say, "What difference does money, even a million, make?" To say, "I'm crazy about you. We belong together. Take me in your arms." She wanted to say, "This is real. Money isn't. It's only gold and silver and engraved paper. It's just something you use in shops. You can't use it to buy love!"

She wanted to cry, "This is the answer to all the half-baked things I've been telling myself for three years." She wanted to say, foolishly, "So that's the reason you're so snubbed. Pain Brander, instead of building roads and digging ditches." She wanted to say, "I love you!" Just that—"I love you."

But she instead, very flippantly, "And so you want to be my sugar daddy? That's it!"

All at once the boy's voice was a crescendo of feeling. Almost the taxi could have heard what he was saying, through the closed, airtight-proof front window. But the taxi driver wasn't extraordinarily interested in this tall Pierrot, in this slim small figure. He was yawning, and wishing for coffee and wheat cakes and fried eggs.

The boy said—

"I want you to marry me tomorrow. I mean when it's actually morning. I'd be afraid to wait—to marry you in the ordinary way, after an engagement and showers and parties

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

HAWAIIAN "TIE-IE" HOW!
Among the most popular new beverages of the year is "Tie-IE" How! made by combining Hawaiian pineapple juice with—well with almost anything you choose.

Some, of course, add beverages that are slightly strong. Most, however, prefer a more temperate drink, and use elder, orange juice or grape juice.

The recipe is very simple. Fill a long tall glass one-third full of Hawaiian pineapple juice. Add a dash of elder, grape juice or whatever you wish. Fill with cracked ice and add seltzer water. For a number of guests use the same proportions per glass but mix in a tall pitcher and garnish with mint, slices of apple and pineapple.

FROZEN TOMATO COCKTAIL.
1 package gelatin aspic
4 cups strained tomato juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon grated onion
4 whole cloves
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Heat one cup tomato juice to boiling with salt, paprika, grated onion and cloves. Dissolve gelatin aspic in hot tomato juice. Add remaining tomato juice and lemon juice; chill. Whip until frothy, then pour into refrigerator freezing trays. Freeze about 4 hours. May be served as cocktail or as sherbet with meat course. Serves 10 to 12.

BRAZIL NUT TURKEY STUFFING
2 chopped onions
2 cups melted fat
2 cups sliced Brazil nuts
Sage or other herbs
Salt, pepper
8 cups soft bread crumbs

Mince onions and cook two minutes in the fat. Mix seasonings and with bread crumbs and stir into fat. Cook two minutes more, stirring constantly. If a moist stuffing is desired, add a little water. This amount of stuffing is enough for a ten-pound turkey.

CHOCOLATE CRESTED CUSTARD
1/2 recipe pie crust
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 tablespoons hot water

Line a deep 9-inch pie plate with pastry, rolled 1/4 inch thick, allowing pastry to extend 1 inch beyond edge. Fold edge back to form standing rim; flute with fingers. Combine eggs, sugar, salt, milk and vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until knife inserted comes out clean.

Add sugar to chocolate; then add water, one tablespoon at a time, stirring until blended. Pour over pie filling, place in slow oven (300 degrees F.), and bake 7 to 10 minutes longer, or until chocolate is set. Cool.

CHOCOLATE SHERRY ICE CREAM
1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate and a bachelor dinner! I'd be afraid to lay plans, because you'd slip out of them. I wouldn't dare take a chance. That's why I want you to marry me, and to do it tomorrow. As soon as possible," his voice, and much of the boyishness had vanished from it—broke off. And Ellen, with something akin to desperation, fought for words to say. Not even the boy, laboring as he was under the spell of a vast emotion, would ever reach the depth that Ellen had reached!

It was perhaps the very breathless agony of those depths that made Ellen realize how necessary it was for her to say. To say something—something brittle, if she must—that would fill this awful aching gap.

She made what was probably the hardest effort of her life to speak calmly.

"Better take me home, Tony," she said. And yet her voice was completely steady. "And then go home yourself. And think this thing out. You've got to think it out, you know. For if I all seems mad and impossible tonight, it will seem more mad, and more impossible tomorrow. I'm not denying the way you feel, or that it's real to you. But it may be just the way you're feeling now. I know you're not just having fun. I didn't ever mean that. You probably feel just as you do, this minute. I'm sure that you're not giving me a—buggy ride! If we should happen to see a chapel right now, and then go home in the doorway, I don't doubt you'd take me into the place, and marry me. And I'm," she drew away from his swift movement toward her, "I'm afraid I'd let you get away with it."

1 cup sweetened condensed milk
1 cup water
2 tablespoons sherry or sherry extract
1/4 cup candied cherries, finely cut
1/4 cup candied pineapple, finely cut
1/4 cup whipping cream

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water for five minutes until mixture thickens. Add water and mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add sherry and candied fruit. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit. After mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (one to two hours) remove from refrigerator and scrape from sides and bottom of pan. Beat two minutes. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit for one hour or until frozen for serving. (Two to five hours, total freezing time). Serves 6.

UNCOOKED FRUIT PIES ARE BOTH WHOLESOME AND TEMPTING
Pie for dessert is always hailed with joy. And when it is a short-cut pie that takes little time in preparation, it is a really easy dessert. At this time of year, when fresh fruits and vegetables are not quite so abundant as they have been, a fresh fruit pie is a wise dietetic choice, as it adds valuable food elements to the meal. These two pies, made with uncooked citrus fruits, are a store of valuable minerals and vitamins.

Grapefruit Cream Ice Box Pie
One and one-third cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup grapefruit juice
2 cups grapefruit pulp, diced and drained
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons granulated sugar

Blend together sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, grapefruit juice and drained grapefruit pulp. Chill. Pour into pie shell which was baked in ten-inch plate. Cover with whipped cream or meringue. Chill before serving. If meringue is used, beat egg whites until stiff and add sugar. Spread pie and place in moderate oven (300 degrees F.) just long enough to brown.

Lemon Cranberry Junket With Cranberries
1 pkg. powder for making lemon junket
1/2 pint milk
1/2 pint light cream
1 cup cranberries
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar

To make cranberry sauce: Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes.

Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open (about 5 minutes). Remove from stove, and allow sauce to cool.

To make junket: Prepare according to direction on package, using 1/2 pint milk and 1/4 pint cream instead of 1 pint of milk. Chill in refrigerator. Immediately after the junket sets, and when ready to serve, put one tablespoon of cranberry sauce on each dish of junket.

LEMON BRINGS OUT THE FLAVOR
Food "accents" are among the most important kitchen aides. And among them none is handier or has a wider usage than the lemon. It brings out the flavor in so many varied foods that it is virtually indispensable.

In these days of federal food laws and sanitary inspection of markets there's little likelihood that the food you buy will be unfit. Brand names and advertisers' standards have done much to enable the housewife to buy to better advantage than ever before. What makes the difference in food is, to a big extent, a matter of preparation.

When Sally serves a fish dinner, for instance, everything is flat. The fish has no flavor, the spinach is bitter, the potatoes—just potatoes, the same grocer, uses the same foods. Her fish is tasty, her spinach delicate, potatoes appetizing with their chopped parsley, butter and dash of paprika.

And—Mary knows the secret of lemon juice. With fish, it kills any "starchy" taste and brings out the flavor. To her spinach she adds a few drops of lemon just before serving, and to the potatoes with their chopped parsley, lemon butter or a dash of lemon.

With canned vegetables—which must appear on the dinner table more frequently with winter's coming, lemon goes a long way toward restoring the fresh flavor often lost in canning. Many meats are improved by the addition of a few drops of lemon, served as a garnish. And with tea, lemon has come to be an indispensable accompaniment.

Local Retailers You Have Rights!

YOU know that a manufacturer includes in the selling price of his product a percentage for press advertising—a small percentage ranging from 3 to 5 per cent.—sometimes, even more, when consumer-resistance is great or when the gross profit margin is very large. So, when a manufacturer spends $50,000 a year on press advertising, it can be assumed that the total annual sales of his product amount to from $1,000,000 or more.

Now if you are stocking a nationally-advertised product—advertised in big-city dailies and in nationally-circulated magazines, you have a right to see this product also being locally advertised—in this newspaper. Your total annual sales of the maker's product, joined to those of its other local distributors (if there are others), entitle you to demand that the product be locally advertised in this newspaper.

Clearly, it is not right that you should be required to promote the sale of a product in the territory served by this newspaper, without receiving from the manufacturer the same kind and degree of sales assistance which he is giving retailers resident in cities where he is spending a lot of money on local advertising.

Quite too often manufacturers don't advertise in local weekly newspapers, saying the city paper is used. They forget, however, that their sales in towns served by weekly newspapers provide an advertising fund which should be spent locally. Why should the contributions from local sales to the maker's advertising fund be spent outside the local sales territory?

You've got a first-class case to put before manufacturers who want you to stock and push the sales of their product, then why not present it, either direct, or through the maker's representative when he calls?

(N.B.—Cut out this advertisement, and show it to the representative of firms whose products you are asked to stock and push).

Prisoner of the Nazis

Condensed from The New Republic
The authorship of the following must remain anonymous for obvious reasons. The New Republic vouches for its authenticity, and for the fact that the conditions described are continuing to the present day.

The concentration camp at Dachau comprises about one square mile, enclosed by a concrete wall seven feet high covered with barbed wire, and heavily guarded by machine guns. At present it harbors about 1700 prisoners, mostly Communists or members of organizations known as sympathetic, such as workers' athletic and relief organizations.

There are only about 40 Jews, mostly manual workers or clerks; some few of these business men, and small villages who have been arrested from motives of personal rancor or envy. None of the prisoners could be convicted of any violation of the law, but they are nevertheless detained for an indefinite period.

The attitude toward the prisoners is reflected in the following quotations from a speech made by the Nazi in command to his followers: "Always remember that no human beings are here, only swine." "No one who does harm a prisoner need fear reprimand." "The more you shoot, the fewer we must feed."

The prisoners live in crude barracks that offer almost no protection against cold, wind or rain. Prisoners sleep on straw sacks covered with a sheet which is changed in two months. For each 52 men a small washstand is provided, and the time allotted for washing for the whole group, is only 25 minutes. Near the barracks there is a pool filled with muddy water, which, shrewdly photographed, appeared in the Munich Illustrierte Zeitung of July 16, 1933, as a swimming pool for the prisoners.

The prisoners are kept at hard labor, building roads and laying out drilling and shooting grounds. Some were harnessed for weeks to a heavy roller which they had to tow nine hours a day without a rest period. The work was speeded up by lashing and kicking, and many men collapsed and had to be carried back to camp.

The food is barely enough to keep idle men fit; certainly not sufficiently sustaining for hard labor. The night rest of the inmates is often disturbed by gangs of intoxicated guards rushing through the rooms and beating the prisoners up. In many cases, under this terrible strain, the hair of prisoners has turned white. Prisoners are allowed to write one letter, or postcard, a week, which has to be turned in to the authorities unsealed. Any remarks about the conditions at the camp means daily beatings and severe punishment in dark cells. The cells are provided with a noose in case the prisoner wants to hang himself.

A favorite stunt of the Nazis is to order newly arrived prisoners into a dark room and make them stand with the faces against the wall while volleys are fired into the air. Whenever a new transport comes, some prisoners are picked out and horribly beaten with wired oxtails. On April 12th a transport from Nuremberg arrived with three Jews. These were lead out of the camp one evening. A few minutes later all were killed by shots fired at close range. Second-in-Command Erpmuller boasted about the deed before the prisoners, "I am opposed to torture for the Jews. They must not extend their suffering by tearing out their legs, but are trampled upon."

The secretary of the Communist party, Deputy Joseph Goetz, was frequently taken out for a cross-examination. He always returned to his cell covered with wounds, and the orderly at the barracks refused to dress them. Every night at 10 o'clock, one of the overseers entered his cell with five special policemen and beat him into unconsciousness. His mattress, drenched with blood, was put out to dry in the sun every second day. After more than two weeks of this torture, Goetz was killed.

Deputy Fritz Dressel underwent similar daily tortures. He tried to cut his wrist with a piece of glass, but he was discovered while he still showed some signs of life and was transferred to a first-aid station. A few hours later he was again "discovered," lying in a pool of blood, his arms pulled out of their sockets. Schloss, a business man from Nuremberg, was killed in less than three days by blows on the testicles. An attorney named Strauss, from Munich, was arrested because at one time he had a case against the Minister of Justice. A few days later this man, who had previously enjoyed good health, was transformed into a quivering white-haired old man. They compelled him to swim in ice-cold water while they lashed him with oxtails. After four days of torture he was shot.

Once, when 12 Jews arrived, they were immediately stripped, their heads wrapped in blankets to smother their cries, and beat barbarously. When they were driven to the barracks, the body of each, from the waist to the knee, was one complete wound. Other Jews were forced to scrub especially befouled toilets with their bare hands; one was made to dash his face with the excrement. Deputies of the fact that the Commander promised that any prisoner who harmed a Jew would be released, the Jews received every kindness from the other prisoners.

The German press has repeatedly announced that great numbers of prisoners have been released and that several of the concentration camps have been closed. To illustrate the credibility of these statements, the press declared that 2000 prisoners were released in southern Bavaria on Hitler's birthday, which means that at least 2000 would have to be released from Dachau. Actually 99 men were released and 25 of them were imprisoned again the next day.

The atrocities in Dachau were the work of a few criminal types strongly backed by their superiors. The great majority of Storm Troopers did not take part in the torturing. Some of the guards even had the courage openly to oppose it. They were in "protective custody." Several of the Special Police sympathized with the prisoners, so that every third week the guard had to be changed, and only the most brutal were kept permanently at the camp.

TIMOTHY SEED ESTIMATE

The total yield in Canada of timothy seed in 1934 may approximate 5,000,000 pounds, as against 4,000,000 pounds in 1933, and an annual average for the past five years of 2,000,000 pounds. The normal annual consumption is estimated at 10,000,000 pounds and from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds of this have been imported annually from the United States. Very little seed is likely to be imported this year, however, owing to the 1934 crop failure in the United States. There would appear to be a shortage of timothy seed for normal domestic requirements next spring.

Because cheese is a highly concentrated food, it should be combined and eaten with starchy foods, such as bread. The addition of vegetables and juicy fruits to the menu is advisable. Although cheese may be served without any further preparation, it can be used in cooking in many different ways. It does not lose its flavor or nutritive value in cooking but it should be borne in mind that cheese will be harder to digest if subjected to high temperatures.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Phil Brassard, at the Wainwright municipal hospital on November 14th, a girl.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. B. Sharp at the Wainwright municipal hospital, on November 19th, a boy.

All returned men should note that the annual general meeting of the Wainwright branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.L. has been changed to Friday, December 7th. It will be in the Masonic hall and will include a "smoker."

Owing to the dry fall weather, and the large number of cattle which will be fed over the winter, the demand for watering troughs has been exceptionally heavy this fall. The Atlas Lumber Co. have built several for the farm trade, and will be pleased to quote you for one of these. Joe Welch, agent.

Mrs. W. Pigeon has been entertaining her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. G. Smith from Banman, Man. for the past week.

Miss J. Middleton and Miss M. Steel both of whom are attending Normal school at Camrose, spent the week end in town on a visit to their parents here.

Mr. R. Harrison with his wife and family arrived on Thursday last from the city bound for Edgerton, where he will take charge of the Kelly farm in that district.

Fifty cents will buy a ticket for the $2.00 show which will be given on Friday evening at the theatre when "Miss Cherry Blossom" will be staged under the auspices of the United church W.A.

During the stay in town of Mrs. Rosina Davies, of Calgary, who was making her official visit to the local hotel, she was entertained by Mrs. D. Davidson and Mrs. A. Sawers.

After a lapse of fourteen years, Mr. Joseph Clarke former mayor of Edmonton was returned to that high office at the elections in the city last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Erickson were visitors to relatives at Irma on Sunday last.

When the weather is cold fires are more prevalent. Avoid all loss by insuring your property in the sound insurance companies represented by Joe Welch.

Dear Reader—Do you realize that there are less than thirty shopping days to Christmas. Shop early and often!

Mr. Phil Stuart drove up to the city at the week end returning Sunday night.

Mr. Frank McLeod is having a two room addition built to his house on Fourth avenue east these days.

"Miss Cherry Blossom" which is being staged at the theatre on Friday evening next, will truly delight all who attend. The girls are pretty, the music entrancing, and the ensemble is magnificent. For fifty cents you can get a whole long evening's enjoyment commencing at eight p.m. sharp. Seats may be reserved at the Standard Pharmacy.

Several of our local men have been employed at the National Park here during the past week preparing for the work of the big annual buffalo kill which is starting right away.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Walter Gray is a patient at the hospital suffering from a severe cold which seems to have settled in her throat.

During her stay in town Mrs. Davies of Calgary, was this overnight guest at the home of Mrs. W. Huntington.

Winter seems to be here at last, and may make up for lost time. Keep your home warm with clean coal and storm washes from the Atlas yard. Joe Welch, agent.

Sympathies are expressed to Mrs. Joe Mackenzie who is a sufferer from an attack of the flu this week.

On Thursday last the enumerators who have been working on the voters lists for the Federal government completed their work, and the lists are now away to Ottawa to be printed as final.

The plan for tickets for the big operetta at the Elite theatre on Friday, November 23rd is open at the Standard Pharmacy, and "Miss Cherry Blossom" will be awaiting your visit there on that date.

On Wednesday a merry party had an enjoyable time at a shower which was arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Britten—newly-weds of the Greenshields district.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Richardson, of Camrose, motored over on Sunday last to spend the day with relatives here.

The sound sense of the great American people cannot be questioned, but our progress depends to a large degree upon the awakening of public confidence and the development of better business.

Right now while the good weather lasts is the time to effect repairs and improvements to your property. And don't forget that the right place to buy (and buy right) is at the Atlas yard for all your needs. Joe Welch, agent.

Mrs. J. Sutherland spent a day or so in the city during the past week.

COMING EVENTS

Not down the date—Friday, November 23rd next—which has been set for the big musical operetta "Miss Cherry Blossom" to be produced at the Elite theatre.

The ladies of St. Thomas' W.A. have set the date for their Fall Sale as Saturday, November 17th. Afternoon tea, sale of home cooking and fancy goods, etc., and fish pond in the Odd Fellow's hall, commencing at 3 p.m.

Don't forget the date for the big card party and dance which the Agricultural society will stage at the theatre on Friday, November 30th. Splendid supper and good time for all.

Members Carl Tory and M. Woods motored to the city for business purposes for a couple of days last week.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Joe Pepin, who was recently discharged from hospital, has again had to return to that institution for treatment.

We are informed that Walter Poltras is at the hospital suffering from a slight attack of pneumonia, and wish him better.

Mr. Walter Jackson has been busy hauling the lumber for the new barn which he is building on his farm at Greenshields.

As the guests of Mrs. G. Agnew, Mrs. P. Thomas, Mrs. E. Rogers, Mrs. Innes, and Mrs. W. Chapman spent a few days here last week from Toileid.

Repair your buildings NOW, while depression prices are still in force at the Atlas lumber yard. Joe Welch, agent.

Thanks to the efforts of our genial local depot agent "Tommy" Lane, Mr. J. Madill, the district passenger agent, C.N.R., has granted the request that the cheap excursion rate of $2.50 to the city on Friday should be extended so as to include the same privilege on No. 1 on Saturday morning. This will give all who desire to see the big show at the theatre on Friday evening the opportunity of availing themselves of this treat and still going to the city for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frazer were visitors to Edmonton last week end for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin drove over to Vegreville on Friday last on business, accompanying Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Huntington to that town and Minburn, etc.

Mr. Alec Adams paid a visit to his father at Vegreville one day last week.

Why hesitate? Take advantage of the fine weather and do your repairing NOW. Supplies never cheaper. Drop in at the Atlas yard and make sure of this. Joe Welch, agent.

As a sign that even the weather man gets fooled sometimes as well as our poor mortals, crows were noticed in bloom south of town on Thursday last—kind of rushing the season.

According to an order issued by the provincial executive council the district court sittings for Wainwright during 1935 have been set for the following dates: February 19th, April 16th, June 18th, October 15th and December 13th.

In the local option votes recently taken at Leslieville and Blackfalds both those villages voted decisively against a change from their present system.

The first real snowfall of the season came last week and although only a light fall, it was a reminder of a real winter season yet to come. The weather this fall has been remarkably fine, and with no serious drop in temperature. The finest season since 1929.
